Cannes Lions-winning creative director who finds the scientific insight that makes people feel something, from capturing the sound of cancer dying for ASCO to 360° campaigns for the world's most prescribed cancer immunotherapy. Has led 20+ creatives and $12M+ in billings across oncology, neurology and public health. Helped win $20M+ in new business, cut agile team turnover from 35% to 15%, and builds AI into research and creative workflows to help give clients and other creatives more room to be human.

Creative Director | Digitas Health | June 2024 - Present

• Leading multiple creative teams across several client accounts (20+ creatives, 4–5 agile teams, 10+ direct reports), managing $12M+ in annual billings across oncology, neurology, patient services and public health. Recruited, trained, and developed staff, reducing agile team turnover from 35% to 15% through mentorship and upskilling.
• Delivering award-winning, high-stakes creative work while driving measurable growth, including retaining and growing the world’s largest DTC oncology account by expanding into HCP, and helping win $20M+ in new business for multiple launch brands. Presenting to clients constantly, winning pitches, and selling concepts internally/externally while managing large-scale, cross-channel deliverables.
• Building scalable systems, like a unified design system for a pharma giant with brand-specific asset libraries. Devising AI systems for synthetic research (message/concept testing), while continually optimizing creative results with repeatable data analytics practices. Managing timeframes, budgets, and staffing/hours allocation.
• Crafting 360-degree campaign execution (HCP + DTC) for the world’s most prescribed cancer immunotherapy, delivered fully integrated campaigns across TV, digital, display, website, HCP detail aids, conference materials, and a new route-of-delivery launch. Leading campaign concepting, art direction, copy direction, talent casting, audio production, sonic branding, video edit, and animation teams while ensuring quality, strategic integrity, and happy client relationships.
• Contributing to agency thought leadership—attending industry conferences and presenting externally/internally on creative innovation and healthcare marketing trends.
• Identifying new creative opportunities in HCP and DTC brand strategy and messaging while stewarding our clients' business across print, social, digital, sites, TVC and CRM, while helping clients embrace new advantages like GEO and modernizing approaches to media.
